WHAT WILL YOU CALL IT?

GEORGE HOWARD GIVES IT A BIG NAME, BUT THAT DOESN'T SOLVE THE MYSTERY.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY R. B. HILL.

George W. Howard, the finished comedian, ran over to New York from Boston several weeks ago. He had been playing in "Niobe" at the Museum in the Hub, and had, of course, scored another success. While in the metropolis, at a certain well known resort for Thespians, the fat and jolly laugh maker met, by a strange coincidence, several of the old company, which, away back in the early '70s, played "in the stock" at the original Holliday Street Theatre, Baltimore. John T. Ford ran the Holliday Street in those days, and a rare prescience must have guided him when he annually, in the duli months of the Summer dog days, made his pilgrimage to New York for the purpose of choosing the new members of his next season's company.

For certain it is that nearly every member of the has, since the days of which I write, made him or herself famous before the American people, and several have become international favorites. But it is not the intention of this sketch to deal in biographical reminiscences, but to tell a strange story that was related by one gentleman of the merry party ted the doings of those days before the old Holliday Street was swept away by the flames on the fateful night that Leslie Gossin, playing leading man in "After Dark," spoke the closing lines just before the curtain was rang down: "After dark the of the beloved playhouse remained!

The talk had drifted into a psychological vein. Actors delight to talk of the supernatural, the unexplainable; and perhaps no class of individuals on earth can speak more intelligently on this vast subject than they.

"A remarkable experience occurred in my life," aid the gentleman alluded to, "soon after we all left the old Holliday Street. For some time I had not been in good health; I was weak and listless, and troubled with insomnia. Having accepted an en ragement at the Walnut Street, Philadelphia, and nowing the extremely high reputation of that house, especially at that time, when no stock company house in America outranked it, I was of ourse most anxious about the sort of impress made. Therefore I studied hard. In very truth, I omes until the cock crew every morning. I went there to do walking gentleman, but was, of course. lke all the rest, only satisfied to do heavy tragedy In my own mind, in those callow days, I was a greater than Booth, I was a mightier than Macready. I read all the leading parts of Shakespeare until I could spout them word for word, while I had the characters of Jack Cade, Metamora, Virginius and Spartacus at my tongue's end. "'In two years' time,' I would say to myself, 'the world will wonder why it ever gave ear to Forrest or any of the Booths.' I believe that I grew pale My landlady never complained that I are too little and possibly my appetite did not give way.

"But it was while I was in this melancholy condition that I fell in love. Not just ordinarily in love, as young men will, not temporarily in love, not shallowly in love, but madly, deeply, wildly in love.

My inamorata, gentlemen, was not one of the pro-

"A baker's wench, I'll warrant!" said Howard. "Nay, a soap boiler's daughter!" groaned Hamilton Harris. "Not so! but a ragpicker's maid child!" suggested

"Peace! Peace, friends! You are all wrong. The gentle girl who had enthralled me was none of these, but was a modest maiden whose father sold carpets on Chestnut Street, near the hallowed spot where now stands the great thread and needle store of Wanamaker. Let me recall her in all her sweet loveliness as my heart remembers her. Her face was oval and her skin as alabaster; her eyes of bliss for the period of about six months. During I intended to make while interpreting, as they this time it was that I studied so hard. She shared all my dreams of future greatness, and fully be-fleved that no living actor possessed the divine spark in fuller measure than her lover. We were very, very happy, I can assure you.

"Then, like the tiniest child's hand, a little cloud came to obscure our perfect contentment. On one or two occasions, through simple courtesy, I escorted a young lady home who belonged to our com-

"Ahem!" in a chorus

"Well, you may all scoff, gentlemen, but really there was nothing more to the matter than what I have said. There was a very poor young girl in our com-should be interpreted, the intense creations of the immortal bard, my sweetheart would say that actresses, she had heard, made excellent traveling companions.

"I began to worry over the thing, but I did not give up studying. However, I slept less and less, and I grew weak and melancholy. Sometimes wonder I did not then acquire the drink habit, and thus wreck what little reputation i have since se-

"The bells jingled, and the car started once more When it came opposite the house in which the young actress lived, Mary pulled the strap and the car stopped. She got out. So did I. She mounted the doorsteps and rang the bell. I stood beside her.
"We entered the house together, and the servant showed us into the partor. My one idea was to pro tect little Ida from violence, but when she came in smiling and greeted me, and did not appear to notice anybody else, I looked about me in astonish ment for Mary. Mary was non est. I felt my under lip drop, as I asked to see the servant. Ida looked a little surprised, but nevertheless called the ser

The lady who came in with me-where is she? I queried. The girl's eyes stuck out. 'I saw no lady, sir,' she answered. Then I tried to apologize, said it was all a dream, that I was ill, etc., and took my departure. I went to see a doctor and then to my lodgings. There found a letter. It was from Mary. She wrote from Reading, where she had been for two days visiting relatives. She regretted, etc., but 'under the circumstances thought our engagement had better be broken. She thought one of the profession would suit me better. Anyhow ents objected to her marrying an actor.

Well, Ida has long been my wife, gentlemen but, in view of the fact that Mary was in Berks County, a hundred miles from Philadelphia, at the time I saw her enter the drug store and speak with me, and do all the other things that I have described, I would just like to know what you would

There was a profound silence when the strange narrative was concluded. Nobody seemed willing to venture an opinion. Presently, however, How ard was inspired and replied:

"Well, old boy, under ordinary circumstances i would call it too much booze; but as it was you and a soda water racket, I reckon it must go on record as one of the great unsolved species of psychological phenomena."

After the ulterance of these mighty words by the genial George, there must, of course, follow some thing to moisten the mouth.

LOTTIE WILLIAMS.

This clever and talented young actress, whose portrait we print this week, has, through conscientions study and wise judgement, reached the foremost rank of her calling almost at a bound. She is a native New Yorker, and is yet in her teens. She began her professional career just after graduating from the Normal School at the age of thirteen years. Possessed of a remarkable degree of talent, with an unusually strong conception of character, based upon actual experience and close observation, she soon perfected herself in the kind of amusement best suited to please the general public. She made her debut in the Fall of 1888, with the "Kindergarten" Co., gaining wide and substantial recognition for her earnest and intelligent endeavors. The following season she appeared with much success in "The Waifs of New York." Her excellent and artistic impersonation of the role of Delia Snow in "The Blue and the Gray" last season is well and pleas-antly remembered. Miss Williams' advancement has been so rapid and true that she is now about to thine as a stellar light in the theatrical firman She will shortly begin a starring tour under the direction of Managers Melville and Thompson as Rags, the Messenger Boy, in "New York Day by Day." Miss Williams has a most winsome personality, and is the very embodiment of magnetic en ergy and charming grace.

"Laying On of Hands."

My friend, the agent of a Buffalo wall paper house, was "taking on" with a headache in the waiting room of the big depot in Philadelphia, when a slick looking stranger, about 25 years of age, at down beside us and asked:
"Is the ache mostly over your eyes or in the back of your head?"

'It's all over my head," groaned the victim "Exactly. Proceeds from a nervous state of the system. Ah! your pulse is away up. Let me see your tongue. I thought so. A cold current of air has chilled the nerves along the spine and a smashing headache is the result. "Are you a physician?" I asked.

"Well, no, not in the ordinary sense. I am called Some call me a fakir, even. I effect are skeptical, of course; but I'll agree to cure your riend here in ten minutes or forfeit $50."

"For Heaven's sake go ahead!" groaned Tom "If you can cure me in an hour I'll give you ten

We went down into the baggage department, where the performance wouldn't attract so much attention, and the fellow began passing his hands over Tom's head and face, and also rubbing his hands. He hadn't worked a minute before Tom said he felt better, and in ten the headache was en tirely gone.

"Now, don't offer to pay me or I shall be of-fended," he said; as he stopped work, "and you'd better sit quiet right where you are for about ten minutes. Close your eyes, thus, and lean back a little more, so."

He bowed himself out in a graceful way, and had been gone fifteen minutes when Tom carefully arose, opened his eyes, and suddenly called out: "Robbed, by thunder!"

The fakir got $90 in cash, a railroad ticket to Washington, and a diamond pin worth $125, and the police haven't nabbed him to this day.

A Tramp's Gratitude.

Well Dressed Stranger-Madam, in the upper left hand pocket of a vest that you gave to a miserable tramp a few months ago there was a cigar belong ing to your husband. I have — Lady of the House-Why, this is the same man

"Here, old fellow, cut those lines! We've all got silver threads now, and crow's feet and wrinkles, but we all understand what our first sweethear was like. She was thy first sweetheart?

The narrator of the Philadelphia experience hesi-tated, started to mutter something—and actually

"Oh, don't bother him!" put in George Howard, coming to the rescue; "let him tell his tale in his own way. God knows we ourselves may have had sweethearts and sweethearts!"

Eye met eye then, lighted up for a mome and sank reflectively, while there were insipient smiles about lips and a general mobilization of features as memory traveled back the dim and dusty road of the past, until she came to some cool, refreshing, green and bowery lane, where birds ang gaily, flowers sprang sweetly, and cool waters rippled delightfully in the Arden of Love!

Ah, me! poor and old and forgotten as we may be, all of us have some such oasis in the desert of our lives !

"Well," proceeded he who told the tale, "the carpet dealer's daughter and I loved as young peo-ple of our ages generally do, maybe; but when our sion was in its bud we both supposed that two mortals never adored each other as did we. How my sweet Mary would look at me while I was on the

"Incidentally, I will suggest that sweet Mary always admired you from a deadhead seat furnished by yourself," again interrupted Harris.

"And why shouldn't she, I would like to know The management was not paying me half what my services were worth." "We'll all agree with you there, old boy. The managements' of the country are the deadly foes "When the play was over Mary enraptured me with her enthusiastic praises! To make a long story short, the young girl and myself lived in a heaven receiving a very small stipend for her work. The girl lived in a boarding house on North Tweifth She had to pay at least one half of her sai ary for her maintenance, and, belonging to the Wal nut Street stock, of course she must needs dres neatly. But many times I noticed the patche her gloves, and once I caught sight of an 'invisible patch' that had been placed upon her boot.

"On two different rainy nights I came upon be

"All these things I told my Mary, supposing that she would be please to know that I had, in a slight degree, assisted one so much less fortunately situated than herself. Ah, little did I know wo

"Ah, little do any of us know them!" softly murmured the cherubic comedian from Boston.

"Mary said very little. She thought that young who entered a profession where they must appear in public ought to be able to take care of maeives. She asked me if the girl was pretty. I replied in the affirmative. She asked me to describe her. I did so."

"How like the dear creatures we call the fair sex pany, as he pulled at his weed.

"Mary became moody. She was no longer glad to build air castles with me. When I spoke of rival-ing Kean she would only reply by shrugging her shoulders, and saying tartly that she supposed a great actor must have an actress for his wife. When I would speak of the grand tour of the world counter, and walked out into the brilliant October sunshine. The crowds kept on passing, the jewels kept on scintillating, the well dressed dames kept on laughing. "All these things grated harshly on my ears, for in my heart I could hear but those cruel, harsh, unjus words, so unlike my Mary, and yet undoubtedly uttered by that gentle girl. I looked at my watch of fashionably clad promenaders. As I lifted the

"She is coming in that uptown horse car—your actress, Ids. She will look out of the window. If there is charm enough in that look to draw you, then go. It must be she or I. You don't know me you have never known me. But I'll kill her, any how! You don't love me any longer. She's robbed me of that. I know where she lives. - Another Murphy is going to enter the field of Irish drama this season, with the intention of pluck-ing the golden flowers of prosperity. Fitzgerald Murphy is the name of the new star, and "Neil Agrah" is his play. It was written by himself, and made a successful tour last season. It is a romantic drama of life in Ireland in '98, and deals with the pathetic as well as the humorous side of the Irish nature. Mr. Murphy is a protege of the late John Boyle O'Reilly, and has already won's good place for himself in his profession by his art and in author-ship and journalism by his factle pen. The young actor-author is a born Irishman, and halls from Kerry. He sings in Irish and English, and his broque is as fresh as a sprig of shamrock just piucked. Others among us have drunk of Love's sharp wine, and another wedding blossoms soon, of which more anon. Al. and Charles Ringling have just returned from an animal sale at St. Louis, where they bought a large assertment of "man fearing and man skeering" beasts. The weather is stifting hot yet. Everyone is prosperous and happy, and new silk tights hang around like Christmas stockings. The spectre that made Hamlet's fright wig rise is regular in his rounds, and Jerry Alton, the little newsboy, distributes a big bundle of Chippers every week. At Benton Harbor, Mich., we greatly enjoyed meeting Burr Robbins, Frank Gardner and Mr. Traitel—a rare trumvirate of congenial spirits. Later visitors have been Charles and Albert Geyen, and Hyatt Frost, of Van Amburgh fame, for whom Andy Gaffney worked twenty-two long years. They were glad to shake hands once more. Late animal additions are fine pairs of leopards and steinboks, and a beautiful black maned yak, bought of the St. Louis Agricultural and Mechanical association. DURING the evening performance of Chas. Lee's London Show, at Roxbury, N. Y., Aug. 18, Elnor, aerialist, had a very narrow escape from serious injury while doing his perch act. The bail ring broke, and he fell from the top, but, with the exception of a few bruises, he was unburt.

ARCHIE O'BRIEN, the English jockey and trick rider, joined Sells Fros.' Circus Aug. 10.

NOTES FROM THE DIEFENBACH CIRCUS.—Ed. Guthrie, equestrian director, has entirely recovered from the fail he received several weeks ago. Mrs. Ids Guthrie joined the show at Alexandria, Ind., Aug. 3, after laying off eight weeks at her home, Cincinnati. M. W. Murray is making a big hit with his bar act. Serry Bros. are proving great favorites. John Max, who joined recently, is doing well in the concert. Everybody is well with the show, and the man in white never fails to make his appearance. Manager Phil Diefenbach received bad news from home Aug. 22, to the effect that his father was dying. Manager Diefenbach started for his home, Hamilton, O., immediately. Mrs. Diefenbach and Ed. Guthrie will take charge of the show during Mr. Diefenbach's absence. The show is doing a wonderful business through Illinois. We are heading for the South.

JOSIE ZAMORA, the clever and well known little gymnast, is visiting her parents at Chicago. She will sail for South America in a few weeks with the Zamora Family to join the Gran Circo Gardner.

MRS. P. BRITT, of No. 172 Beech Street, Detroit, is anxious to hear from her son, Dan Leon, the circus performer. She has been dangerously ill since July. GRORGE W. ORRIN and wife are still at Saratoga and are rejoicing at their little one's recovery from a seeming faital illness.

PROF. DONALD, balloonist at El Doralo Park, Weekawan, N. J., on the Palisades, after making an ascent of about 3,000 feet Aug. 27, came down with the parachute, ianding on the top of a high tree, about fifty leet from the ground, and, falling thence, broke two or three ribs. It is thought the accident will not result seriously.

ing room scenes were marvels of stage setting. David Whiting first appeared at this theatre on this occasion.

On Jan. 19, 1871, a matinee performance was given for the George Holland Fund. The following was the programme: Recitation, Geo. Vandenhoff; after which came Bronson Howard's comedy, after which came Bronson Howard's comedy. The receipts were $469.50. The weather was exceedingly cold in March, and the East River was blockaded with ice. Mr. Davidge lived at Brooklyn, and, as the ferry boat reached her slip on this side (there was no Brooklyn Bridge then), he heard the clock strike eight. Mr. Davidge, who was the first man to jump ashore, saw at a glance that no living man could make headway on the ferry bridge against that crowd, and that he was in imminent danger of being pushed back into the water. An idea struck him. Striking a territo attitude, a la Richelieu, the old man raised his Canada fur cape aloft, and shouled in thunder tones: "Room, gentlemen, room! An unhappy couple in Twenty-fourth Street suffer all the pains of perfittion for want of marital sundering, and theregan be no 'Divorce' till I get there!" The terror stricken crowd fell back, and the comedian reached the theatre in time for the caliboy's summons. "Saratoga" was acted for the one-hundredth time March 25, when Mr. Daly gave his company a supper at a neighboring hotel. It was acted for the last time 27, for Mrs. G. H. Gilbert's benefit.

Dion Boucleault's adaptation of Lessieri's story, "La Fille du Sud." was produced 28, under the title of "Jeschele." It proved a fallure, and was withdrawn after April 8. The cast:

W. J. Gilmore's Spectacular "Devil's Auction" Co. made their first appearance in four years at the Co. made their first appearance in four years at the Academy of Music, Reading, Pa., Tuesday evening, Aug. 25, and met with instantaneous success. The company were advertised to play Reading two nights, but, owing to an immense downpour of rain which completely submerged the streets on Monday, it was impossible to haul the scenery and paraphernalia from the depot. Good use was made of the time lost, however, as the company hada full rehearsal in the evening. On Tuesday evening all was in readiness, and everything passed off as smooth and creditable manner. The general verdict was that in beauty of setting, nearly of arrangement, originality, and in the company were welcomed by one of the largest and lens every been equaled in Reading. The company were welcomed by one of the largest and energy evening the property of the continuous and perfect and symmetrical performance. The scenery costumes, marches, ballets and entire paraphernasia are entirely new, the old plant having been entirely destroged by fire four years ago al Philadelphia. The new "Devil's Auction," in its present form, one might say, is a minrror wherein are reflected the grace of the contumer, the colors of the scenic artiac's brush, the flower of sound, the sparkle of wit and many handsome forms and faces, all working harmoniously together towards the common end of pleasing the sense. — J. A. Fraser Jr., the playwright, is a busy and successful author, several of his latest dramatic efforts being in a fair way to net him good returns. His new play, "The New State's Attorney," was first produced by John Dillon at White Water, Wis., Aug. 20, and scored an immediate hit. Soot Marble wrote the plece originally, but, as now produced, it is claimed to be an entirely new play. The character of Pilgrim Boggs fits Mr. Dillon to a nicety. The author has been commissioned to write a play for James F. Brown, and Mattie Vickers is doing his "Edelweiss" to isrge returns.

— Will McRoble and wife (Vera Evans) are with Nettle Bernard Chase's Co.

— Prank Shephard has been engaged for Rich & Harris' "Boys and Girls" Co.

— "Hattle Nugget," with Herbert Cawthorn as the star, began its season at Hillsboro, O., Aug. 31. New and elaborate printing has been prepared, and the outlook for an additional season of success is very bright.

— Frank H. Wakefield has resigned from the starf of The Detroit Journal to accept the position of advance agent for Margaret Mather. A farewell dimer was recently given to him by his former associates, and he was presented with a handsome token of their esteem.

— Marie Davenport goes with the "O'Dowd's Neighbors" Co.

— The Standard Quartet—J. H. Cavanagh, J. F. Davis, W. H. Maxwell and E. S. Metcalfe—go with "The Still Alarm' Co.

— What might have terminated in a serious accident happened at Salem, Mass., Aug. 24. Advance Agent Ellia, of the "Si Perkins" Co., and Elliposters Joe Fallon and William Nichols were riding in a wagon in which was also a long ladder. In crossing a railroad track the ladder struck the horse. He ran, striking the curbing of the walk. The men were thrown out, Mr. Ellis falling forward, landing head downward across the forward axie, in which position he was carried until rescued. The horse kicked several times in close proximity to Mr. Ellis 'head. Neither of the three men sustained serious injury, but it was a close call.

— Fannie Dean has withdrawn from Adelaide Kenyon's Co.

— The Bailey Theatre Co. arrived at Chatham, N. Y. Aug. 20, on very short notice, and without being properly billed. Consequently, they played to light houses at Cady's Hall the last half of the week. The company had other hard luck, too, for on 24 a landford attached all the effects of the party to secure payment of his bill. The members of the troupe kept the telegraph wires hot during the day with frantic appeals to distant friends for a remitiance by wire. Two of the party subsequently inquidated their individual shares of the indebtedness, and took the cars for their homes. The people claim that Manager Bailey deserted them under pretext of going to Hartford, Ct., to secure funds.

— Theatrical managers are keen witted in utilizing any idea that will aid them in attracting patronage. A modification of the Australian ballot system is used by Tragedian Thomas W. Keene to determine the play or plays he will present at places where his engagement does not last an entire week. Tickets containing the list of plays in his repertory days prior to his visit, and those who desire to vote on the question do so by marking in a square at the end of the name of their favorite play, and t keene played recently, the choice was "the Merchant of Venice," which received 660 votes out of the 1,187 cast.

— Wm. H. Crane begins his regular season at Providence, R. I., Sept. 14, in "The Senator." Mr. Crane will make a tour of the principal cities with this play until Jan. 11, when he opens an engagement at the Star Theatre, this city, continuing to the end of the season. During this engagement he will present several new American comedies that have been written for him. The company engaged for his support comprises Hattle Russell, Anno O'Neil, Katharine Florence, Gladys Wallis, Isabel Everett, Mrs. Angusta Foster, James F. Neil, Henry Bergman, T. D. Frawley, Adolph Jackson, Geo. F. Devere, Wm. Herbert, J. C. Padgett, Harry Braham, Cyril Walker and J. J. Glimartin.

— Pat Rooney's new play, "Lord Rooney," was produced at Fall River, Mass., Aug. 25. The play was greened by a large audience with demonstrative approval. After the performance a reception was held. Among those present were Pat Rooney, Stanley Macy, James Connors, Geo. Harris, Geo. Ford, Chas. Simonds, Wm. Dennis, Fred Mason and L. R. Gilbert, advertising agent of the "One of the Finest" Co.

— Alex. Salvini, Bernard Dyllyn, Mr. and Mrs. George Barrett, Imro Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Gerritt Smith, Fracto F. Powers, Mile. Sarti, Gilbert Clayton, Stafford Smith, Alfred Le Fre, of the Le Fre Bros., and Edward Leslie, of Le Clair and Leslie, were among the principal participants in a very successful entertainment given on board the steamship City of New York, at sea Aug. 24, for the benefit of the Seamen's Orphanage. The affair netted £100 or more. The travelers all arrived safely at this port Aug. 26.

NEW YORK CITY.

Last Week's Events,-it was a busy week for the metropolitan playgoer that fin-ished on the night of Aug. 20. Several theatres opened for the Fall term, and there were noveltles enough to surprise even the most jaded patrons of the playhouses. But, unfortunately, there was quantity rather than quality in the new offerings, for not a success—an absolute, money winning, multitude pleasing success—can be recorded. multitude piessing success—can be reconcu. There was, to be sure, a very agreeable revival of "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows" at Proctor's TWENTY-THIRD STREET TREATER, which, on Thursday night, 27, opened its doors for the season; but this revival is not expected to last very long, for there are other and more important productions in store for Proctor's audiences. We give the cast of "Mr. Wil-kinson's Widowa," as indicating the strength of Charles Frohman's reorganized company, which will tour Mr. Gillette's lively farce this season:

Sierman and Morrisky were at Lowrey's Theatre of Variedies, Dublin, Ire., up to Aug. 22. Alice Delmer was also at Lowrey's.

Frank Capprry, frish comedian and dancer, arrived from Engisand Aug. 25.

Composer Monkoe H. Rosknyello was at Paris, Fr., as late as Aug. 30. There he submitted to the interviewing process, as the following cablegram to The New York Herald attests: "Mr. Rosenfeld, who is at Paris, making arrangements in behalf of Frank Tousey's music house for the publication of French compositions in New York, told me that he had found the copyright act a bone of contention. The prices asked for American rights, he said, appeared surprisingly high, and in some cases prohibitory. From the more liberal firms, however, he had secured a number of manuscript works by Audran, Bachmann and Waldterfel. Mr. Rosenfeld explained that Mr. Tousey's system would exchange his unpublished instrumental music for fresh compositions, paying a bonus of from 100f. to 300f. each. "This wald Mr. Rosenfeld, enthusiastically, opens up a new field for American composers. That is an unexpected advantage of the copyright act. But there are more than counterbalancing disadvantages. I have got an impression, which the interface. For well known names the French publishers will demand prices which Americans will be unab stand this season's brisk competition. The audiences at each house were small, and there were no signs of success in either venture. It is admitted, however, that Mrs. Emma R. last, at New Orleans, of which city, we believe, its uss, as New Orleans, or which city, we believe, its three authors are residents. The work was sung in New Orleans under palpably favorable circum-stances, before a crowded house of its authors' friends; but this encouragement was not duplicated at Niblo's. The best that can be said of "The Khedive" is that it is entertaining without being original. Its melodies are altogether reminiscent of half a dozen gifted composers, and its libresto is of the a dozen gitted composers, and its interest is so the conventional order, not especially dull, yet never actually sprightly. A back of laughter and of encores plainly indicated the verdict of the first metropolitan audience on this Southern work. The cast was uneven. Ferris Hartman was droll and effective in the title role. Lotta Gliman sang admirably, and John J. Raffael was an imposing figure as the sultan. The opera was rather picturesquely staged. It is produced here at the risk of the authors, and is to retain Niblo's stage three weeks. Niblo's thus season presents no change in its executive star. The house is still leased to and managed by E. G. Glimore, and these are his assistants: C. C. Reeve, treasurer; A. W. Hoffman, musical director; F. J. Durkin, advertising agent; J. H. Cunningham, machinist; Joseph Turner, property master; E. Davidson, gas engineer; Jos-eph Clare, scenic artist.....The Casino off-ered a novelty Tuesday night, 25, in the shape of an English version (by Edgar Smith and Max Free-man) of Jacques Offenbach's three act spectacular man) of Jacques Offenbach's three act spectacular operetta, "Indigo," produced under the supervision of Mr. Freeman, and thus cast:

Young, Hoyt and Manz, and rich costumes helped to win a fair share of ap-proval for "Indigo." The music has been con-siderably overhauled by Gustave Kerker, and is siderably overhauled by Gustave Kerker, and is generally gay and graceful, without possessing any great degree of infectiousness; but the libretto is uncommonly dull, and will be held accountable for the weak moments in the entertainment. Pauline L'Allemand, making her debut in English light opera, as well as her first appearance at this theatre, was instantly successful, her cultivated vocalism being a revelation to most of her hearers. Indeed, "Indicated" will once whatever praise it may win here "Indigo" will owe whatever praise it may win here to the admirable manner in which it is sung. Ferd Schnetz was effective and artistic as the former, has been engaged for Lorrett's High Class Entertainers. Manager Lorrett is resting just now at his birthplace, Wost Falis, N. J. KEKNE, formerly of Keene and Bartlett, has been especially engaged for the opening week at the World's Museum, Baltimore.

MRS. GOODYEAR, wife of Chas. W. Goodyear, of Goodyear, Elitch & Schilling's Minstreis, has been spending the Summer with friends at Rockaway Beach, L. L. whom she subsequently had in court. There was nothing in the case, however, and the police justice dismissed it. Charles A. Gardner's engagemen of a week and one night at the Grand closed very successfully 29. Mr. Gardner may congratulat himself on his triumph. New plays are ticklis things, but Mr. Gardner need have little fear as to the future of "Capt. Kari," for the success of this play was fully established for him at the Grand last week. As a German dialect comedian, Mr. Gardner has won an army of admirers here, and, under able management as that of Sidney R. Ellis, "Capt. Karl" should make lots of money for its projectors. Aug. 18, 1891." Joseph Revnoids reported the important engagement of Mrs. Langtry. She will come to this country, and will play a season under his management, beginning Jan. 2. On behalf of Eugene Tompkins he secured Sims and Buchanna's melodrama. "The Trumpet Call," which has been played at the Princesa' Theatre. It had been reported that Mr. Reynolds was to bring to America the company that has played "The Prodigal Son" in London. This was seen last Winter at Daly's Theatre, and, as Mr. Daly owns the American rights to the pattonime, some surprise was occasioned by the statement that it was to be given by another company than his. Mr. Reynolds says that the affair is not yet quite settled. Charles Lauri owns the rights to the piece for the whole world, except America. The securing of the American rights from Mr. Daly is only a question of terms, and Mr. Daly is to have a conference with the author and come to a decision this week. Heinsune Constend, after a three months' absence abroad, arrived home Aug. 22. While in Europe he secured eleven new operas and a number of new German farces and dramas. He says he owns new works by Milloecker, Strauss, Cubulka and Suppe. Bayer, the composer of "Die Puppenfee," he says, has sold to him the rights of his new opera. Another purchase of his was Conti's opera, "The Good for Nothing," which has had a run of one hundred has also secured a play which will be produced by Evelyn Poster. "The Austrian Government," said he, "has appointed me a representative of the Vienna International Exhibition for Music and the Dramatic Art, which takes place next year. The exhibition will be a great success, and one of the biggest things in Europe. It will show the growth of music and the drama, and also its influence upon the public. A vast amount of interest is being taken in it. "The Vogethaendler," Zeller's opera, is another work I secured. It will probably follow "Indigo" at the Casimo."

The terrible casamity in Park Place which caused the loss of many lives and much property Aug. 22, destroyed a large amount of theatrical printing, which was in the hands of Liebler & Maass. Manager George W. Lederer lost a portion of the paper for his "il and I'Yoos, and nearly all the printing for the "Incog." Co., of which Charles S. Dickson is the star. Prof. Hermann had most of his printing destroyed. All of the small work for Mathews & Snryth's "Hoss and Hoss" Co., the supply for "The Midnight Alarm," "Tar and Tariar," George Barrett, Lillian Lewis, Modjeska, Lewis Morrison, "Danger Signal," James Reilly, "Castles in the Alr," "Abraham Lincoln," Royal Midgets, "The Boomer," "Two Old Cronies," "Wilfe for Wife," N. S. Wood, Alvin Comedy, "Pire Patrol," "The Nabobs," "Me and Jack," and other attractions was in the hand of Liebler & Maass. The lithographers had a storehouse, a few doors away from the scene of the disaster, and a lot of printing is safely deposited there, but still their loss is very heavy.

A salk of the late Emma Abbott's wardrobe was held Ang. 25, at the Fifth Avenne Auction Rooms. The wardrobe was willed by the prima donna to her sister, Mrs. Libbic Abbott Clark, by whose instructions Auctioner William B. Norman conducted the sale. Mrs. Clark was disappointed. Only a few of the gowns were sold. She expected that many theatrical women would be interested, and had the sale this tim for their benefit. Thirty gowns were sold, aggregating an undue influence to induce her father to disinherit her in his will.

Managers Edward G. Gilmorr, of Nibio's, had a little trouble with John C. Buil, one of the door-keepers at the Madison Square Garden, who disputed his right to admission without a ticket, Mr. Buil alleges that Mr. Gilmore assaulted him, and he instructed his beyers to bring an action for $5,000 damages. The lawyers sent a clerk, M. H. Grossman, to serve a summons on Mr. Gilmore. When Mr. Grossman returned to the office, Aug. 24, he told his employers that he had been assaulted. He found Mr. Gilmore in the dining room of the Brunswick on Saturday, and served the summons. Then, he says, Mr. Gilmore denied that he was E. G. Gilmore, and said he was Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore. The clerk refused to take the summons back, and alleges that Mr. Gilmore caught him by the neck and choked him. Now, he wants damages, too.

PROP. HERICHANN, the magician, has some secret enemy. He had more than ordinary evidence of it on Aug. 23, when on returning from New York to his home at Whitestone, he found that his napthalannch, the Addie, named after his wife, was mission.

his home at Whitestone, he found that his napthal banneh, the Aidde, named after his wife, was missing. Examination of the rope by which it was tied showed that it had been cut with a knife and left to drift off on the Sound to be wrecked. Mr. Herrmann spent almost all day Monday in another launch looking for his property, and at last found it about two and one half miles down the Sound. The police of Whitestone are searching for the man who cut the rope.

LILLIAN RESSELL objects to having her photograph given away to induce customers to purchase boxes of cigars and packages of chewing and smoking tobacco. Photographer Benjamin Faik has brought suit in the United States Circuit Court against Setdenberg & Co., tobacconists of this city and Florids, to restrain them from importing, publishing or disposing in any way of Miss Russell's photographs in his business. Mr. Faik says that Setdenberg & Co. have varied the design of his copyrighted photograph, No. 41, of Miss Russell so as to evade the law.

Lydia Ready, a well idressed octoroon, went to the London Theatre Aug. 26, and bought an admission ticket. When she presented it to the ticket taker he refused to let her in. She tried to force her way in, and was arrested. At Essex Market 27 she showed her ticket to Justice Duffy, and reasserted her right to admission to the theatre. The policeman told the Justice he arrested her became she was drind; and she was fined; S. She paid the fine. Herman Schonberg and Leo Winterman, of the Amberg Theatre, who had been imprisoned is Ludiow Street Jail for contempt in disregarding Judge Barrett's order in aiding and abetting in the production of "Die Wiide Jagd" at the Amberg last October, were released Aug. 27, on payment of the fines imposed, of $250 exch, and the costs of suit, amounting in all to $746.58.

JOSEPH KENNARD, a weathy dealer in essential oils, at 228 Pearl Street, has sued his wife, Leah, who was an actress before he married her, for an absolute divorce. The suit is brought in the Supreme Court. Judge Patterson on Aug. 26 reserved his decision on an application for alimony and counsel fees.

NEW PLAYS AND NEW HOUSES.

"Mr. Macaroni."

This farce comedy, which was originally acted Aug. 21, at Newport, R. I., introduced George F. Marion as a star comedian. The action of the play takes place at the home of Adam Scrowler, a wealthy old bachelor. A fete is in preparation to honor the return home of his ward, Clair Readymoney, a recent graduate. The young lady, in her effort to electrify her friends, has added to the usual programme drawing room theatricals, in which she is to take part, assisted by her music tutor—a real italian count. Archibola Reguius Getthere, a busting go ahead American, whose meeting with the fair Clair has ripened into love, follows her to her home with the intention of appealing to her guardian for permission to lay seige to her hand. Through a ludicrous case of mistaken idendity, Getthere is the recipient of very harsh treatment on his arrival. On matters being straightened out, he finds to his great surprise the young lady repudiates his addresses. During the short period of their separation, she has become the victim to a fad of the day, fancying that her social position demands that she should wed a title. Hence she informs Mr. Getthere she cannot think of linking herself with any but a noble man. This being the state of affairs, Mr. Getthere secands think of linking herself with any but a noble man. This being the state of affairs, Mr. Getthere seeding a message to the Count, notifying him that the reception has been postponed. A letter purports to be from that titled foreigner, regretting circumstances which necessitated his absence. Clair is willing to accept any substitute rather than face a disappointment of her guests. Getthere, disguised as an Italian fruit peddier, appearing at an opportune moment, site faits into the trap, while he, through his idiosyncracies and grotesque action, so disguats her with his stupidity that she relents and comes to the conclusion that, if Mr. Macaroni is a sample of the latian, a plain American will be good enough for her. However, Getthere, having eradicated the "Mr. Macaroni."

"The Fire Patrol." This realistic melodrama, by J. W. Harkins Jr., was acted for the first time on any stage at the was acted for the first time on any stage at the Chester, Pa., Opera House Aug. 22, and was introduced to New York 24, at the Windsor Theatre. The plot is conventional, and may be briefly told. The play opens in the regions of Colorado, wherein is made known the strong friendship of two men, who become estranged, however, through the mistake of one of the friends, who overhears what he supposes is a declaration of love from his friend to the woman beloved by him. An accusation of treachery follows. It also appears in act one that the woman has been deceived by another man, who becomes the villain of the play. In act two the supposed traitor is seen in his position as superinsendent of the quartz mills, with the immense crushers in operation. This is decidedly the strongest feature of the play, and one of the best things seen here in stage realism. It is here that the owner of the mills is assassinated by the villain, who secures a will from the body, made in favor of the hero, who, rushing upon the scene in an attempt to secure the murderer, is seized by him, placed under one of the crushers, and the machinery started. His friend, however, arrives in time to interpose his body between the heavy stamp weight, and by his immense strength hold the crusher until relief arrives. In act three we are informed that the hero had been accused of the murder of his patron, and had been accused out had escaped from prison, and his supposed body had been found in the mountains and buried. The scene then changes to New York City, where we are introduced to all the former characters though under entirely different conditions. The villain, living 'in luxury, is to be married to the woman, for the love of whom is caused the estrangement between the two friends early in the play. The former miner now is seen with hair whitened through grief at his comrade's supposed death upon the mountains, and who, the rich was early in the play. The former miner now is seen with his whitened through grief at his comrade, and the man who was su Chester, Pa., Opera House Aug. 22, and was intro duced to New York 24, at the Windsor Theatre. The opera, "Indigo," was sung for the first time at the Casino, this city, Aug. 25, the new libretto being by opera, "Indigo," was sung for the first time at the Casino, this city, Aug. 25, the new libretto being by Edgar Smith and Max Freeman. French and German troupes have previously produced it in this city, but no English version of the work had ever before been heard-here. The scene of the opera is laid in the Indigonian Islands, which have, somehow, been left off the maps. King Indigo nurses a tender passion for Fantasca, a slave, who is betrothed to Janio, king's jester and leader of the royal orchestra. These two lovers, having arranged a plot to regain their libarty, are aided by All Baba, a donkey driver, and his wife, Toffana. A bogus telegram informs the king that a band of robbers is about to attack the Caves of Kibosh, where is concealed the treasure accumulated during indigo's economical reign. The king's frugsi policy having resuited in the disbandment of the army, Pantasca recruits a company of amazons from the royal harem, and salles forth to combat the mythical band of robbers—intending to secure the treasure, and escape in a ship sent by her friends. She obtains from the king as agreement that half the treasure shall be hers, in the event of her victory over the robbers. Romadour, king's prime minister, led by his love for Fantasca, provides her with the key to the Caves of Kibosh, and the slave, having drugged the royal party, secures the treasure and escapes with her followers to the seashore, where, owing to the non arrival of the rescuing vessel, she is obliged to still further hoodwink Indigo. The latter, belleving that the robbers have secured the treasure, eventually permits Fantasca to convince him that she has defeated the thiceves and recovered the booty, half of which the king bestows upon her as a reward. The delayed ship arrives opportunely, and Fantasca and her friends return home.

"The Black Masque."

At the Union Square Theatre, this city, Aug. 24, Frederick R. Giles' romantic melodrama, "The Black Masque," was performed for the first time on any stage. The story opens at the coronation fete of the young Queen Fortunetta, who ascended the throne of Prosperia in the fourteenth century. To please the public, she enobles Leo, the captain of the Mountain Guard, with whom she has become infatuated. The "red piague" makes its appearance in the country, and he is commanded by his mother to fight it. Prior to his departure, however, he keeps a tryst with the Queen, which is witnessed by Bardanias, a jealous riwal. In his absence, the latter poisons the Queen's mind against him, and he returns to find his mother sentenced to the stake and his friend to the block. But he effects their rescue. During a masked ball that evening he appears in the character of the Prince of Red Death, but the Queen, having ascertained that she had wronged him, sonfesses her error, and all is well, Bardanias being basished. "Captain Karl."

This play, by Sidney R. Ellis, had its first production at H. R. Jacobe Theatre, Newark, N. J., Aug. 15, and was first acted in this city 22, at the Grand Opera House. The cast: Karl, vintage driver, Capt. Karl, Chas. A. Gardner; Rudolph Bendler, Ogden Stevens; Adolphna Stigiamund, Robt. V. Ferguson; Father Babtist, Wm. H. Leyden: Bruno A. Baron, Henry Kingsley; Little Otto, Little Hazel Regan, Kinger, Alex. Johnston; Boatman, Royce Alton; Gertrude, Eva Byron; Baroness, Marion May; Wilhelmina, Nellie Walters; Rosa, Bertle Alton. The story deals with the vintage workers on the borders of Saxony. Gertrude, an orphan, and Wilhelmina, her companion, live with Father Babtist, the village priest. Bruno, a wealthy young Baron, falls in love with Gertrude, and the Baroness, his stepmother, who is opposed to the alliance, plots with Lawyer Bandler to have her marry Karl, a vintage driver, by offering a dowry. In rejecting him she confesses to her betrayal by Bruno, to him and Father Babtist. The Baroness, by intercepting letters, learns the secret, and tries to get possession of the oblid, which is kept in hiding. Lawyer Bandler tries to persande Gertrude that Bruno has cast her off, and that he has married again; but Karl, who went away to find Bruno, returns and tell her that he (Bruno) is still true, that he is coming to her and that he while be at the castle the same night. Overjoyed, she gets her child and starts for the castle to meet him; but Bandler, who has become a soldler, while on his way to join his regiment, hears the spiash, as the child is thrown into the water. He jumps in, rescues it and takes it with him to the army. Ten months elapse, and Karl, who has been promoted to the rank of Captain, is once more back among the vine-yards. Bruno, who has been away for his health, now returns in search of Gertrude, she not having been seen since the night she started for the castle. He finds Karl, and while at his hu Bandler comes in and Karl accuses him of kinding the child, and he confessed to having killed he This play, by Sidney R. Ellis, had its first produc-tion at H. R. "Night and Morning."

This piece was first done Aug. 24, at Jacobs' Theatre, Newark, N. J., by Edwin Arden. The cast: Virginia Peyton, Ethel Barrington; Mary Peyton, May Buckley; Hilda Vane, Nannie Palmer; Col. Jole Peyton, Carl Anderson; Rufeal Ortega, Richard Ganthony; Berkley Von Phul, Louis Button; Possum, Frank Gardner; Hiram Smoote, S. F. Gurry; Eph, Wm. Gardner; Jasper, Hall Beckley; Pete, Raiph Orcut; Pedro Ramirez, Geo. Rainey; Jose, E. L. Barston; Ramon, Ellis Dent; Garcia, R. T. Fulmer; Yorke Darrell; Edwin Arden. The plot is laid in Virginia. Yorke Darrell is in love with Virginia Peyton, but she prefers Ortega, a young Mexican, the treacherous friend of Darrell. At a secret night meeting she gives Ortega a bracelet as a piedge. Darrell inopportunely enters, but she escapes without recognition; but the bracelet, which was dropped, is found by Darrell, and, in a quarrel, it is broken. A duel ensues by the light of cigars. Ortega removes his cigar from his mouth, and Darrell, resolving not to kill his friend, fires away from the light, and Ortega fails. Darrell escapes, believing himself a murderer. Six months later Darrell returns to marry Virginia, and tells her the story of the duel, during which time the scene is re-enacted behind a screen at the back of the stage. Horrited, she denounces him as a murderer. At this moment Ortega enters, and Darrell, relieved from crime, embraces him as a brother. Ortega had been found on the night of the duel by plantation hands, secretly nursed to life and gone back to Mexico, but love and revenge caused him to return. Hilds Vane, a companion of Virginia, and once the mistress of Ortega, holds the half bracelet as a proof of her (Virginia's) meeting Ortega on the night of the duel, and also charges her with being his mistress. Overhearing a conversation disclosing the villainy of his supposed friend, Darrell determines on vengeance. He has Ortega flogged, after which the scoundred crawlas way. The scene changes to Mexico, under the shadow of the voicano Orizaba. Ortega has become a br This piece was first done Aug. 24, at Jacobs' The atre, Newark, N. J., by Edwin Arden. The cast

"A. Wolf's Wedding."

This farce comedy, which is the venture of Frank N. J., and on 31 was produced at Brooklyn, N. Y. Adam Wolf, a floating German, is paid a handsome sum to play a part in a drama in real life. Victor Ernhardt, a wealthy young German, born with a manta for playing practical jokes, is about to become the possessor of a charming bride. Victor's idlosving reaver takes such possession of bim that in manis for playing practical jokes, is about to become the possessor of a charming bride. Victor's idiosyncrasy takes such possession of him that, in order to satisfy the cravings of his frenzy, he not only jeopardizes his own life, but sacrifices the reputation of the lady of his choice by permitting himself to be impersonated, on the day of his wedding, by the representative A. Wolf, a German far beneath Victor in culture and social standing. The bride, cognizant of the fact that her Victor is a clever actor and thoroughly proficient in the art of facial disguises, does not for a moment hesitate to accept A. Wolf as Victor, especially when he is announced as such by her sister, who is an accompile in the plot. On the other hand, A. Wolf, who is a German of more than ordinary cunning, is at first unconscious of his mission to the bride, but accidentally learns that he can make himself the hero of the day. Being a strong believer in the oid adage that "turn about is fair play," he quickly takes advantage of the situation, actually marries the charming bride, and thus ends act one before the climax anticipated by Victor. Acts two and three of "A. Wolf's Wedding" involve a muitiplicity of very funny incidents—the bride trying to annul her marriage with A. Wolf, and he insisting that she support and obey him. The comedy also assumes a dramatic phase, wherein the plot deals with the supposed murder of Victor and the recovery of his large fortune, which was intrusted for safe keeping in the-nands of Abe Rosenbaum, a commercial traveler, who is a friend of Victor. The mysterious disappearance of Victor and the fortune produces a chain of circumstantial evidence, which leads to the arrest of Rosenbaum for the crime.

"Custer."

James Robertson, brother of T. W. Robertson, the English dramatist, is the author of "Custer," which has been revived this season by W. J. Fieming. The play was originally acted as far back as 1876, but we give the plot for the benefit of younger readers. The first act deals with George Custer's life in his native village. A villainous lawyer, Grasp, loves the future cavalryman's betrothed, Louise Bacon, ani, being rejected by her, pursues her and her family with implacable emmity. The second act introduces the hero as a cadet, and ends with his departure for the seat of civil war, to gain his first laurels. In the third act the scene shifts to the plains, and concludes with the General's death at the hands of Grasp, who has become a renegade and a member of Sitting Bull's band. The last act introduces W. J. Fieming as Daring Bill, the scout, with an oath of vengeance to fulfil, and the play winds up with a bowier knife contest between him and Sitting Bull, in which, that gay warrior is made to ancoumb, while postic justice is meted out to Grasp from a six shooter in the hands of Mrs. Custer, once Louise Bacon. Patti's New Theatre.

Adelina Patti opened her new theatre, Castle of Craig-y-Nos, Wales, Aug. 12, the occasion adding another to the successes of her life, and marking their culmination. Prom morning until midnight it was a continuous feativity, ending in the brilliant another to the successes of her life, and marking their culmination. From morning until midnight it was a continuous festivity, ending in the brilliant performance in the theatre. The performance began at 8 o'clock, a splendid audience being present, the scene in the body of the house rivaling in brilliancy that on the stage. Programmes, hand painted on yellow satin, were served to the guests. The drop scene having been set, Wm. Terriss, who acted for Henry Irving, appeared on the stage. His entrance was the signal for the first burst of appliause. He expressed the regret Mr. Irving feit for his enforced absence, which prevented him from showing his appreciation for Patit's talent as a singer and an actress. Mr. Terriss' speech was well received. The curtain rose on the first act of "La Travitat," with Patit as Violetta, supported by Durward Lely as Alfredo. The audience rose to their feet and greeted the diva with the utmost enthusiasm. When Patit had overcome her emotion, she put forth her powers as an artist and displayed them to the greatest advantage. When the curtain fell amid a tumuit of appliause the diva was repeatedly recalled and presented with magnificent floral tributes. Arditl's "L'ingenue" was then performed, and brought for the time honored conductor rounds of applause. After a brief intermission, during which the guests entertained themselves by inspecting more closely the beautiful auditorium and foyers, the curtain was ring up on the garden scene in "Faust." Patit looked the severely simple Marguerite to perfection, and her singing of the familiar role sent the audience into raptures. Again and again was she recailed at the close of the scene. On her final call she was presented with a model of the theatre, done in flowers, and with numerous other beautiful floral pleces and bouquets. The other singers, including Nicolini as Faust, Valida as Siebel and Marta, and Novara as Mephistopheles, also received libersi floral tributes. The festivities were continued 15, when a matinee performance was

"Incog."

This legitimate farce was acted for the first time on any stage at the Grand Opera House, Indianapo-lis, Ind., Aug. 21. It was written by Mrs. Romnaldo Pacheco. "Incog." is a modern "Comedy of Errors," only that instead of two Dromios there are three who look alike-Tom Stanhope, Dick and Harry who look alike—tom Stanhope, Dick and Harry Winters. Gen. Stanhope, a gouty old gentleman, desires his son, Tom, to marry his ward, Isabel Howard. Tom, however, has fallen in love with Kate Armitage, a companion of Isabel, and Isabel has given her heart to Ned Moreland. When the hate Armitage, a companion of issued, and issued has given her heart to Ned Moreland. When the General discovers this he is in a rage. Tom endeavors to pacify him, but the General refuses to be calmed unless Tom marries Isabel. This Tom refuses to do, and the General orders him from the house. Tom goes, but soon returns, disguised to represent a picture he found in the garden of the Seaside Hotel, at which all the characters are stopping. Tom represents himself to the General as the son of an old friend, is welcomed, made hunch of, and is pressed to make love to Kate, the General thinking thereby to outwit his son, Tom. This Tom does, much to the General's delight. It, however, transpires that the photograph after which Tom made himself up was that of one of twins, bick and Harry Winters, one of whom, bick, is married, and whose wife is also at the hotel. She expects him there, he having just been released from a private santarium, where he had been sent to cure him of a little insanity. Mrs. Winters mistakes Tom for block. The other twin libers is also avecated to sanitarium, where he had been sent to cure him of a little insanity. Mrs. Winters mistakes Tom for Dick. The other twin, Harry, is also expected to return from the road on that day, by his famee, Moily Somers, and she mistakes Tom for Harry. Both Dick and Harry strive, and the three are mistaken by everybody for each other. This causes the complications ensuing. The General finally consects to Tom marrying his chosen, Miss Armitage. The cast: Kate Armitage, Elien Burg; Mrs. Richard Winters, Alice Shepard; Mrs. Moily Somers, Clara Lipman; Isabet Howard, Neille Buckley; General Rufus Stanhope, Harry Davenport; Richard Winters, Louis Mann; Harry Winters, Robert Edeson; Ned Moreland, E. B. Earle; Dr. Siegfried Hartmann, J. L. Ostomeyer; Matthew, an attendant, Lewis L. Mason; Oliver, another attendant, Stephen Stanford; Tom Stanhope (alias Jack Darling), Charles Dickson.

"Uncles and Aunts."

This three act farcical comedy, by W. Lestocq and Walter Everard, was acted for the first time in America at the Grand Opera House, St. Paul, Minn., June 28. It was originally produced at the Comedy Theatre, London, Eng., Aug. 22, 1888. Reginald Rawlins is in love with and desires to marry Mary Marley. Being under age, he is compelled to gain the consent of his uncle, Henry Hawlins, which consent is withheld, as he desires his nephew to marry a Miss Sparrow, while the father of Mary Marley has determined that his daughter shall marry Zedikiah Aspen, and writes a letter to this effect to his daughter, who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Wade, who also has staying with her another niece, a cousin of Mary, Nelle Marley, who is engaged to Fred Cureton, a friend of Reginald's. Old Aspen and Nellie determine to use him to further their plans, and Marvaparently consents to marry Aspen provided he will impersonate Reginald's uncle and consent to the visits of Reginald to Mrs. Wade's house, Aspen being led to believe that Reginald's uncle and obtain his consent to the marriage. They go to London, and at the house encounter the wrong uncle, Robert, a brother of Henry, who, being a tion of the young ladies to secretly visit Reginald's uncle and obtain his consent to the marriage. He sends the giris away happy, and promises to visit the aunt and fix up ail needed consent, relying on his ability to convince his brother that it is best afterward. He goes down to Mrs. Wade's, is received as Uncle Henry, and is getting on famously when the real Henry appears, and is mistaken for the uncle of Fred Curton, who is expected from Australia. This adds new complications, which are only straightened out by bringing the characters all together, and with mutual explanations, during which Uncle Henry gives his reluctant consent to the wedding, and all ends happily for the young people, Mr. Aspen having, in the meantime, renewed a former courtship with a maiden sister of the Rawlins Brothers and resigned his claim to Mary's hand to marry Miss Aurora Rawlins. The cast: Robert Rawlins, Frank Losee; Henry Rawlins, Wilfred Clarke; Zedekian Aspen, Geo. R. Edeson; Mary Marley, Victory Bateman; Mrs. Wade, Mrs. Seiden Irwin; Bates, Marcus Moriarity; Neille Marley, Marian Elmore.

"Original Sin."

The above farce comedy, by M. E. Swan, received its initial presentation at Oakland Park Pavilion, Decatur, Ill., Aug. 5. The scene is laid at Honey "Original Sin" is the name given Oilve Sinn, the village romp, by the cross oid house-wives who dislike her pranks. Oilve is in love with Arthur Verishi, a marvel of timidity, who cierks in the village store. Christopher Cross, the proprietor of the store, discovers that Arthur is the possessor of mining stock worth $20,000, the value of which he (Arthur) is ignorant of, and plots with his netce, Drusilia, an old maid, to secure the stock. Drusilia is willing to sacrifice herself and become Arthur's wife, but he wont accept her devotion and rushes madly from the store. He becomes proprietor of The Honeyville Houler, a lively political paper, and loses all his money. Several of the subscribers are after him, Cross and Drusilia persecute him with a breach of promise suit, and at last, in despair, after a quarrel with Oilve, he decides to commit suicide. Instead of taking laudanum, however, he takes soothing syrup, and his attempt to shume off the mortal coil is a failure. Things go from to bad worse, and Arthur is finally about to give up when his friend, Percy Pierce, finds out all about the stock and he selis out for $20,000 and grets the girl of his choice. The cast: Arthur Verishi, Mark E. Swan; Hungry Mike, Lee Mosses; Christopher Cross, Frank E. Moore; Percy Pierce, I. M. Douglass; Col. Mirder, Fred Gordon; Drusilia Day, Eva Carr; Olive Sinn, Sidans Norveile. Olive Sinn, the village romp, by the cross old house

This will be the first cycling meet at the Manhattan Field, the main feature of which is the quarter mile bicycle track, which has been constructed under the supervision of an expert. In its construction the main object has been to make this the fastest bicycle track in the country, and the lowering of the present American records there is anticipated. The handleapping will be done by the official handleapper of the League of American Wheelmen, and L. A. W. rules will govern. Handsome prizes will be awarded first, second and third in each event.

Long Distance Contest.

T. W. Eck, the veteran 'cyclist, has finally con cluded arrangements for holding a six days' bleycle tournament at Madison Square Garden, this city. The race is to take place Oct. 1s to 24, and the following noted performers in the old world and the new are stated to have been secured as starters: Thomas Battensby and W. Lamb, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Eng.; William Wood and Thomas Shields, North Shields, Eng.; Arthur and Alfred Robb, Birmingham, Eng.; George Eddin, Coventry, Eng.; J. D. Lumsden and W. Stage, Aberdeen, Scotland; M. J. O'Flanagan and Patrick Martin, Ireland; Charles Terront, Jules Dubois and M. Medinger, Paris, France; Albert Schock, W. J. Morgan, John L. Prince, Lieut Edward Reading and Charles Asbingen. The contestants will all use the ordinary bleycle. The track will be 1sft. wide, and will be raised about 4ft. at the turns. One half of the net proceeds of the tournament will be divided into seven prizes for the winners in the following proportions: First prize, 50 per cent. of the amount; second, 25 per cent.; third, 12 per cent.; ourth, 10 per cent.; fifth, 8 per cent.; sixth, 6 per cent.; seventh, 4 per cent.

**THE BATH ROAD 'CYCLING CLUB held their annual one hundred mile road race on Aug. 15, over the usual course on the Great North Road. There were twenty-four entries and of these eleven finished the distance, the winner, C. A. Smith, riding a pneumatic safety bleycle and making the race in 6h. 59m. 11s., which is the fastest time for an out and home course ever accomplished. S. F. Edge was second in 5h. 59m. 12s., and J. Blair third, 1n 6h. 8m. 36s. T. W. Eck, the veteran 'cyclist, has finally con course ever accomplished. S. F. Edge was second in 5h. 59m. 12s., and J. Blair third, in 6h. 3m. 3s., both riding pneumatic safety machines, while R. C. Nesoltt and J. F. Waish made a dead heat in 6h. 19m. 6s., which is the hest record for a pneumatic ordinary machine. The only tricyclist to finish was H. Arnold, who rode a pneumatic machine and completed the distance in 6h. 49m. 36s.

G. D. Brogher, of the North Road 'Cycling Club, on Aug. 19 succeeded in cutting down the fifty mile tricycle record, on the road, which was formerly held by F. C. Wilson. Begble started from Hitchin and reached Peterborough in 2h. 35m. 17s. The roads were in good condition and the rider was assisted by pacemakers.

Rapid Railroading.

The record for speed by a railroad train was broken on Aug. 27, it is claimed, on the Bound Brook Railroad, between Neshaminy Falls and Langhorne, by engine No. 206, drawing two ordinary coaches and President McLeod's private car Reading, which is about equal in weight to two coaches. The fastest mile was scored in 39½s., the fastest time miles in 7m. 12s., averaging 43s. per mile. This race against time grew out of some chaffing that took piace at Judge Green's dinner to the Farmers' Club on Aug. 20, in Easton, when William M. Singerly remarked to Mr. McLeod, the president of the Reading Railroad Company, that for thirteen years he had been making it a diversion to time fast railroad trains, and that he had rarely traveled faster than 50s. Singerly said that the best he had timed was 48s. McLeod quietly replied that he could do better than 48s., and Singerly said the would be pleased to see it done. As a result of this conversation McLeod invited Singerly and some friends to take a fast ride. The run was from Ninth and Green Streets to Langhorne, and the best mile was made in 39½s., or at the rate of ninety miles per hour.

The engine was of the Wootten pattern, burning anthractic coal. It belongs to class D, 35, has 54t. Sindiving wheels, and is one of the ordinary patterns of fast engines in use on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad and the Bound Brook Railroad to New York. It was built in the Reading shops. The locomotive was handled by Engineer John Hogan, and the fires were looked after by Oscar Teshner. The conductor was William Morgan, and there were aboard the tran, in addition to President A. A. McLeod, I. A. Sweigard, general superintendent of the Philadelphia and New York division; C. G. Steffey, general road foreman of engines, and E. C. Tominson, trainmaster of the Philadelphia and New York division, Accompanying Mr. Singerly were B. A. Van Schalek, John Nortis and James S. Chambers Jr. The record for speed by a railroad train was broken on Aug. 27, it is claimed, on the Bound

Bro. MINTS — Does that set the matter in a clear light?

"COR."—The reveiations do not astonish as very much; answered by post to address at bottom of blank. W. H. RIFLEY —Arrived as predicted; thanks. H. P. BOUTKLLE. Your game interested us so much that we did not quite finish it this week. As to Bro. Pollock's note (c) in game 1 809, we do not yet see how White could keep even if he answer the suppositious 12. Q to B 3 with 13. Q B to & K5. Now take your continuation; "Kt x P +; 14. Q x Kt, B x Kt"—15. Q to her 2 must be best, when Black saves his Q and White his R; but Black has a Pmore, two B's vs. B and Kt, and we prefer his position. How about 13 K Rt D Bag' BRO. SECUIN.—We trust the various matters will prove of some interest.

THE ENTRANTS to the minor tourney of the recent meeting of the U. S. C. A., at Lexington, numbered eighteen as against fourteen last year-the number in the championship tournes being the same. In all the three tilts in which Mr. Showalter has won the championship he is said to have lost but the single game scorred by Dr. Polock on this last occasion. We have just received the St. Louis report, of which we would gladly write more if we had room.

THE RATHER piquant news comes from Leipzig that Dr. Tarrasch has base some differences with the publishmen of The Deutsche Schachzeitung, which have led to his rather abrupt severence from the editorial charge of that magazine. Our criticism upon Dr. T.'s method is contained in three words—ioo much gab—i. e. in gas e annotations. If this was the rock of offence (which we do not know) we do not blame Veit & Co. for demanding a reform. Dr. H. von Gottschall's name will appear alone for the present.

Yachting on Newark Bay.

The merabers of the Newark (N. J.) Yacht Club were treated to a spell of decidedly unfavorable weather on the occasion of their annual regatts, sailed on Newark Bay on Monday, Aug. 24. The wind was very variable, and the vessels had to contend with several rain squalls, which occasioned a series of mishape, and eight of the boats failed to fluish. The mast of the Our Own was snapped off at the deck, the Essex and Gaiwafer upset, the Maggie P. went ashore, the Lizzie B. broke her centrebeard, and two other boats were withdrawn as a precautionary measure by their careful skipp rs. The course sailed was from a stakeboat off the clubhouse, at the foot of West Twenty fourth Street, Bayonne, to the buoy off the upper lighthouse, to stakeboat anchored off the Graw of the long bridge of the Central R. R., and back to the starting point, the course being gone over twice, the entire distance sailed being about ten mites. The special prize offered for the best sathing time over the course was awarded to the Seybolf. A summary follows:

The annual competitions for the amateur swim ming championship of America came off in the Hudson River, at Nyack, N. Y., on Thursday after-noon, Aug. 27, under the auspices of the Manhattan noon, Aug. 27, under the auspices of the Manhattan Athletic Club, of this city. Quite a number of entries were received from different parts of the country, and the meeting was a success in every respect, although the absence of Alexander Moffert, who had been suspended by the New England branch of the A. A. U. for competing at an unregistered meeting, was much repreted and detracted from the interest that would have otherwise been manifested in the result of the races. There was a goodly crowd in attendance, but the water was not in the best condition for swimming, being quite rough. The contestants swam with the tide, however, and also had the wind with them.

THE ONE MILE SWIMMING RACE, for $750 and the professional championship of America, between Robert P. Magee, the examateur champion and present instructor to the Manhatan Athletic Club; John Leavitt, of Newton, Mars., and McCusker, of Lowell, Mass, is to take place on Saturday, sept. 12. at Lake Quinsigamond, Mass. The fluai deposit, of $100 each, was staked on Aug. 24 and the men are in close training for the event. It is expected that the winner will be matched with the English champion, Joey Nuttail.

Alexandra Mayperers, of the Manhattan Athletic pion, Joey Nuttail.

ALEXANDER MEFFERTS, of the Manhatian Athletic Club, of New York, was the winner of the one mile swimming race for the amateur championship of Canada, which came off under the auspices of the Montreal Swimming C ub on Saturday, Aug. 22. He led from the start, eventually finishing nearly a minute abead, his time for the distance being 32m. 1%s.; Benedict, second, in 32m. 59s.

THE ladies' single paddling race at the meet of the American Canoe Association, Wilisboro Point, Lake Champiain, took place on Aug. 24, and was won by Miss Winser, with Miss Painer second and Miss Fredericks third. All the ladies represented Newark, N. J.

THE first and second class boats of the Quincy

THE first and second class boats of the Quincy (Mass.) Yacht Club satied off for the championship on Aug. 26, with this result: First class—White Fawn first, Posy second. Second class—Idler first, Madge second.

THE Massachusetts Yacht Club sailed a race at City Point, Mass., on Aug. 27, boats of the sixth and seventh only competing, with this result. Sixth class—Magpie first, Peri second. Seventh class—Scamp first, Mirage second.

Miss Ewas Dosnig won the two hundred yards swim-ming race for the ladles' champion-hip of Scotland at the Towerbead Baths on Aug. 17 She is a native of Gla-gow, is not yet eighteen years of age, and has been swimming in matches and exhibitions for severally asset

Racing for Trophies.

The first of a series of three races for forty-six footers was sailed over a twenty-four mile course off Marbiehead, Mass., on Aug. 27, under the auspices of the Corinthian Yacht Club. There were five starters, but the fleet Gloriana was not among nve starters, but the neet Giornan was not another them. The wind was light, the sea smooth and the weather thick. The Barbara quickly got to the fore, and she remained there till the finish, winning a creditable victory, $100 and the first leg of the series. The performance of the Bestrix was disap-pointing. The second race of the series took place on the following day, under almost similar conditions as to weather. This race also decided the third leg in the contest for the Cherry Diamond Yacht Club's 4500 gold cup, the previous races for the latter trophy having been salled off Newport. The same boats started, and this time the Bratrix did herself proud, handily defeating the Oweene, which latter boat was rather favored by the rain and fog that prevailed. Unfortunately the Barbara and Mineola were disabled by the breaking of their bobslays, Summary:

The third race of the series came off on Saturday, 29, over the same course, the same boats competing. The fact that the Barbara and Beatrix had each taken a leg caused the interest in the third event to deepen. The whistling buoy was turned in the following order: Alborak, Il.64:16. Beatrix, Il.64:20; Mincola, Il.64:49; Owene, Il.55:15. Barbara, Il.69.9. The boats turned the Eastern Yacht Club buoy in the following order: Rearrix, Il.0:30; Alborak, Il.0:30; Mincola, Il.5:59; Owene, I.16:19; Barbara, Il.6:20. Then the boats all hauled in the wind for a beat home. The Beatrix crossed the finish line an easy winner, having sailed lastest over the entire course, and especially on the last leg to windward. Mr. McCullagh was considered a "hustler," and he pursued those whom he knew to be "out shopping" with a determination which generally accompished good results. He was born in Dublin, Ireland, in May, 1838, and acquired a good common school education in that city. He came to New York in 1861, went to St. Louis in 1865, and found employment as the editor of The Billiard Mirror, a trade journal, published by J. M. and Joseph Brunswick, the celebrated Western billiard table manufacturers. In 1867 Mr. McCullagh became traveling salesman for the Brunswick Brothers, still retaining his position as editor of The Mirror. As a journalist he was an aggressive writer, as the opposition in trade to his employers learned upon perusal of his articles. The old guard of today will readily remember the bitter war which was waged during the existence of the separate firms of Brunswick Bros. Juitus Bake and Phelain & Collender. In 1870 McCullagh and his brother, J. B. McCullagh, editor of The St. Louis Globe Democrat, connected themselves with The Chicago Daily Republican, but lost everything in the great fire which destroyed six source miles of buildings in the city that year. In 1811 Mr. McCullagh purchased an interest in The Kansas City Journal, but the investment prove unfortunate and he returned to his old employers in Cincinnati and was given his former position as traveling salesman and editor of The Mirror.

In 1874 the J. M. Brunswick Co. and Julius Balke & Co. consolidated, and Mr. McCullagh was made manager of the St. Louis branch which the firm opened. His success there was phenomenal, and the St. Louis branch became one of the most important of the many which the firm started all over the western and southwestern portions of the country. He was always a faithful employe, devoted to the interests of his employers, and died in their service, trusted and respected by each and every member of the firm.

In his capacity as traveling salesman Mr. McCullagh probably visited every hamlet, village, town and city from the Missispip River to the Pacific Ocean, and has used as modes of travel every known conveyance, from the primitive ox team to the lightning vestibule express trains of today. He possessed the faculty of making and retaining the friendship of all with whom he came in contact. His genial manners and social ways capitated all, and his friends were legion. He was a fine conversationalist, with an unlimited supply of Western wit and wisdom, and I his company was always in demand. He was recognized as one of the leading citizens of the Mound City, and has held several positions of honor there, without emolument of any kind. ence is at an end." Chairman Kramer read the following letter, which was sent by Julian B. Hart, president of the Boston Club, of the American Association. Is minformed that while the American Association and National League are holding a conference, called at the request of the latter, the Boston Club, a member of the National League, has signed one of our players, M. J. Kelly, under contract to us. I hereby enter my protest against a continuation of said conference until such time as M. J. Kelly shall be returned to the Boston Club, of the American Association.

Chairman Kramer wanted to declare the conference until such time as M. J. Kelly shall be returned to the Boston Club, of the American Association.

Chairman Kramer wanted to declare the Conference at an end then and there, unless the National League men would agree to restore Kelly to the American Association. Finally a motion to adjourn until 10 o'clock the following morning was made by Brush and seconded by Phelps. It was carried by a vote of 5 to 1, the chairman insisting upon voting in the negative. At 10 o'clock on Aug. 26 the National League men were ready to go abead, but instead of the American Association committeemen they received this communication signed by Kramer, Phelps and Von der Ahe:

We in good faith, accepted your proposition for a joint peace conference, and attended, with the intention and disposition to make an earnest effort to settle all existing differences in some manner which would be honorable settlement we were apprised of the fact that one of your clubs (we trust without your knowledge, consent or permission) entered our ranks and induced one of our players to 'jump his contract.' You will, of course, agree that in view of this conference, which was well known to all your club members who had authorized you to represent them, any such action was not in good faith, but was a positive violation of the letters and spirit of the negotiations which had passed between u. this we feel that we cannot properly continue our negotia

The American Association were determined and intended to stand by what they had decided on the the night before. Meanwhile Chairman Kramer left for Cresson Springs, Pa., where he is spending the Summer. After an hour's deliberation they wrote the following reply, which was signed by Brush, Byrne and Hart:

Wrote the following repty, which was signed by Brush, Byrne and Hart:

We are in receipt of your communication of this data. By mutual consent and in good faith, the National League appointed a committee of three to meet a like committee from the American Association for the purpose of harmonizing any differences existing between the two organizations. We met according to agreement and formally organized, with Louis Kramer as chairman and James A. Hart as secretary, to discuss such matters as might be brought before the joint conference. After organizing, your Committee, representing the American Association, submitted the following demands as a basis for a settlement:

First—The reversal of the decision of the National Board in the cases of Stovey and Bierbauer, and the remanding of said players to the Athletic Club, of the American Association.

time of adjournment last night. We, therefore, hold ourselves in readiness to meet you and will remain here until 5 o'clock this aiternoon unless otherwise advised.

At this time the American Association was holding a special meeting in the Randall. Edwin H. Sutherland, of Washington, was made chairman and Julian B. Hart, secretary. J. Earle Wagner represented Philadelphia, J.B. Hart, Boston; Gus Schmelz, Columbus; William Barnie, Baltimore; Michael Scanlon, Washington and Chris Von der A.e. St. Löuis. Mr. Van der Ahe held the proxies of Louisville and Milwaukee. Mr. Phelps submitted the report of the Conference Committee, which was accepted. The resignation of President Kramer, to take effect Sept. 1, was read and accepted after a resolution of thanks to him had been passed. Zach Phelps, of Louisville, was unanimously chosen as his successor, and Julian B. Hart was selected to fill the vacancy on the Conference Committee caused by Mr. Kramer's withdrawal. Then the following letter to the National League Committee was drafted and the American Association adjourned:

A dispatch from Boston, dated Aug. 27, says: "The Boston Club, of the National League, has sent Nash here with tempting offers to Brouthers, Richardson and Brown. To show their position the players of the Boston Club, of the American Association, held a meeting and resolved to sign with the club of that association for 1892, if their services were wanted. They waited upon ex-President Prince today and completely took him by surprise when they stated their errand. He made a neat little speech, in which he told them how deeply be appreciated their dielity and good will, which was in decided contrast to the action of a late member of the team. He said he wanted all of the present players for next season. Captain Duffy put his name to a contract and was followed by Richardson, Brown, Stricker, Murphy, Fitzgeraid, O'Brien and Radford. Brouthers weakened. The Boston Club, of the American Association, may sue the officials of the National League Club of this city for enticing away Kelly, and attach the gate receipts for the next series."

He cannot say that he did not know he was legally bound to us. Again, when the Cincinnati Club, of the American Association was transferred he was wired to come to Boston and play out the season in accordance with the terms of his contract, and he came here. This is pretty work for the Boston Club, of the National League, to do on the eve of a session, in which both sides are looking for peace and harmony. We never had any other idea than that Kell's word was as good as his bond, and if he is that sort of a man—well, we are just as well satisfied to have him out of the club, as his presence would only cause trouble. Chicago vs. Brooklyn.

The sixteenth game was played Aug. 25, at Chicago, the home team then scoring their tenth viccago, the home team then scoring their tenth vic-tory of the series. The Chicagos commenced hit-ting Hemming hard, as kyan led off with a home run, and they pounded him unmercifully, especially in the first and seventh innings, when twelve hits let in a like number of runs. Anson led in batting with two triples and three singles, while Wilmot and Ryan each made two home runs, the total of bases credited to the Chicago team being no fewer than fifty-three. Luby kept the Brooklyns down to eight hits, five of which were made in the first and ninth innings.

Pittsburg vs. Boston.

The fifteenth game was played Aug. 25, at Pittsburg, the Bostons then securing their thirteenth victory of the series. The Bostons batted Galvin hard in the first inning, triple baggers by Stovey and Clarkson, and three singles sending in six runs.—Stovey led off in the second inning with a home run, and Galvin then gave way to King, who kept the visitors from scoring during the remainder of the contest. A triple bagger by Hanion saved the home team from being shut out. Stovey retired on account of sickness, and Ganzel took his place in the seventh linning.

Pittsburg vs. New York.

The Pittsburgs defeated the New Yorks for the seventh time, Aug. 27, at Pittsburg, and thus evened nevenish time, and it is series. King kept the visit-ors from making more than six safe hits, and would have shut them out had it not been for a wild throw by Lally in attempting to catch Tiernan at third base in the sixth inning. The Pittsburgs pounded Barr in a lively manner, especially in the first and eighth innings, when they bunched seven singles, and, aided by wild pitching, scored six runs. Lally led in batting, making a triple and two singles.

Milwaukees were shut out Aug-25, at Boston making only three scattering singles of Buffinton. Umpire Kerins failed to appear, and the veteran ex-professional Tom Bond, was satisfactorily substituted. With Murphy on first base in the second inning, Richardson drove the ball over the left field fence for a home run. Davies was batted hard in the third, four hits then yielding three runs, and was wild in the minth inning, when he gave three ### Athletic vs. Louisville.

The Louisvilles opened another Eastern trip Aug. 25, at Philadelphia, the weather then being unfavorable, and the attendance small. Chamberlain kept the visitors down to three hits, two of which were made in the third inning, and saved them from a shut out. In the first inning, with the bases full, Chamberlain retired the next three batsmen, striking out two in succession. The Athletics failed to make more than five scattering hits off Stratton, who was poorly supported, Jennings being charged with four costiy errors. The umpire called the game on account of darkness, in the first half of the eighth inning.

These clubs contended again Aug. 27, rain having prevented the game scheduled for the preceding day. Bowman, a fast left handed pitcher, played for the first time with the Athletic team, and did good work in the early part of the contest. He then seemed to weaken, and the visitors made nearly all of their hits in the last three innings. Meaking the pitched very effectively throughout, only seven scattering safe hits being made off him.

Another contest took place Aug. 27 when darkness again intervened, but not until the St. Louis team had scored the two winning runs after one man was out in the last haif of the sixth inning. Both pitchers were batted hard and often. The St. Louis Browns started off with the lead, batting out eight runs in the second and third innings. A lively streak of batting in the fourth inning erabled the home team to make five runs and tie the score.

Baltimore vs. St. Louis.

A contest marked by a close and exciting finish took place, Aug. 28, at Baltimore, the St. Louis team then winning by superior fielding. McMahon was poorly supported, (illbert and Werden having costly errors, and he was also batted hard when hits were needed. O'Neil led in batting for the visitors with a double and two singles. Silvetts was very wild, and thereby materially belped the Battimores in run getting. Johnson made a home run off a long hit.

Boston vs. Louisville.

The teams met for the fifteenth time Aug. 23, at Boston, and at the end of the tenth inning the contest ended in a draw, each side scoring two runs. The game was then called on account of darkness. Buffinton held the Louisvilles down to six settlering safe hits. Fi zgerald's pitching was also very effective, Duil's being the only one of the home team who did any batting, and his three safe hits embraced a double bagger. The finsh was very exciting, the visitors having three men on bases and only one out, but great catches by Stricker and Brown brought the contest to a close before the winning run could be scored.

The Futurity Stakes Won by His Highness, Ridden by McLaughlin.

Almost as great a crowd as ever visited the beautiful race course of the Coney Island Jockey Club was present on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 29, the open-ing day of the Fall meeting. The special attraction was, of course, the great two year old event, the Faturity Stakes, the interest in which was increased Faturity Stakes, the interest in which was increased by the trouble over the entry of Edward Corrigan's fast coit, Huron. The Coney Island Jockey Club declared the colt out of the stake, to which pro-ceeding his owner objected, alleging that when he bought the horse at the Belle Meade sale for $400 lt was stated in the terms of the sale that he was eligible to the Futurity, and Trainer G. B. Morris as engine to the Futurity, and Trainer G. B. Morria asserted that the colt had never been properly declared out of the race. The club refusing to recognize the cold of the race. ### Kingston Defeats Van Buren.

Twelve thousand persons assembled at Garfield Park, Chicago, Ill., on Monday, Aug. 31, to see the match race between Kingston and Van Buren, for $3,000, a mile and a sixteenth. The day was raw. Kingston was held at prohibitive odds, five to one being the shortest price at any time, while Van Buren, at four to one against, was nibbled at by the small betters. There was applause when the two horses paraded before the stand. Hamilton was astride Kingston. and Ted Sloan had the mount on Van Buren. There was no delay at the post, and the two horses started away of even terms. Sloan tried hard to send Van Buren to the front, but the black boy from the East would not have it that way. Kingston clung to Van Ruren's neck around the turn, and the pair raced like a team of half a mile, where Kingston showed in front. Buren's besten, "shouled the crowd, and so K proved. Hamilton took a strong wrap on the Eastern cract, and romping down the stretch, Kingston bassed the judges' stand three lengths before Van Buren. between Kingston and Van Buren, for $3,000, a m

READ WHAT THE PRESS AND MANAGERS HAVE TO SAY.

LITTLE GOLDIE, the petite and captivating little star, made a declied hit at the Park Theatre last night rhe spacious theatre was growded, every seat taken and standing room at a premium. The play was well received, highly commended, and heartily enjoyed. The appearance of Lottle Goldle herself was the signal for a sorm of appliause, her acting was a pleasant surprise to everybody. She had three difficult parts, and though ture, she never oversteeped the bounds of propriety, but conducted herself with a sweet and winning abandon that fairly captured the hearts of the great audience. Her support lis exceptionally strong.—DAYTON HERALD, Aug. 11.

GERMAN DIALECT COMEDIAN OF AMERICA,

N HIS NEW ROMANTIC COMEDY,

CAPTAIN KARL.

Scoring a Prominent Hit at the Grand Opera House, New York.

An Elaborate Production.

The Entire Scenery Carried by Company.

N. Y. Press Notices.

Good humor shone through all Mr. Gardner's works.— N. Y. Herald, Aug. 23, 1891.

Mr. Garduer is an actor worthy of the play. He has a good voice.—N. Y. Tribune, Aug. 23, 1891.

There are several interesting characters in the piece. Chas. A. Gardner, who takes the leading part, conducted himself as to excite the vehement approval of the audience.—
N. Y. Times, Aug. 23, 1891.

Mr. Gardner is very successful as a delineator of German character, and his new play, "Captain Karl," contains a number of songs which give him an opportunity to display his ability as a singer.—N. Y. World, Aug. 23, 1891.

The audience was very large and enthusiastic. Mr. Gardner in Captain Karl can simulate pathos admirably; he also dances gracefully. Plenty of pretty songs were heard, and were received with hearty applause.—N. Y. Sun, Aug. 23, 1831.

Chas. A. Gardner, supported by a very good company, began the season at the Grand Opera House last night, in his romantic comedy, "Captain Karl." Mr. Gardner sang several new songs during the action of the piece, and was several times recalled. —N. Y. Recorder, Aug. 23, 1821.

Possesses distinctly original traits. To the little ones he particularly endeared himself and sang with the sweetness of a thrush. -N. Y. Press, Aug. 23, 1891.

A highly appreciative audience greeted Chas. A. Gardner at the Grand Opera House last night. Mr. Gardner haß a pleasant smiling face, good teeth, an easy manner, and dances with skill and grace. He has the power of pleasing his audience, and when an actor does this, he has the qualities which command success. The singing by the Fatherland Tyrelean Quartet was exquisite. The scenery deserves special mention.—N. Y. News, Aug. 23, 1891.

Mr. Gardner bas much in his favor, and his work was conscientious and agreeable. He was supported by a good company.—N. Y. Evening World, Aug. 24, 1891.

N. Y. Press Notices.

Chas, A. Gardner played Captain Karl at the Grand Opera House last evening to an enthusiastic audience. -N. Y. Telegram, Aug. 25, 1891.

While Mr. Gardner is on the stage there is plenty of fun. When he is not on the stage the play is sufficient to answer even the uninitiated.—N. Y. Advertiser, Aug. 23, 1891.

Chas. A. Gardner, a clever and experienced representative of German dialect comedy, was seen at his best in the title role of a new comedy, called "Capt. Karl." The part afforded Mr. Gardner ample opportunities for the display of his pleasing stage presence and capital singing and dancing. Mr. Gardner fully deserved the warm welcome he received.—N. Y. Clipper, Aug. 29, 1891.

Mr. Gardner is one of those round faced, jovial beings who are constantly bubbling over with good humor and making mirth contagious. His new songs were all encored, and his dancing brought down the house. The play is a sure winner for Mr. Gardner, who has thus added an important triumph to his list of successes.—N. Y. Dramatic News. Aug. 29, 1891.

"Capt. Karl" is a play for the public to which it appeals, and succeeds admirably. There is a pathetic and romantic story running through its length, a story always fascinating to men and women, and the interest of the audience is held from start to finish, abundance of good comedy. The songs all new and each one was heartly encored.—N. Y. Dramatic are Mirror, Aug. 29, 1881.

We have a number of German dialect comedians, but few have attained the position given to Mr. Gardner in the theatrical world. He has a pleasing appearance, dances with a great deal of grace and is an actor whose prominence has been gained by industrious work. It is because of his exceeding fine acting and his plays that he is considered the best German comedian we have, and the stage is in need of more like him.—N. Y. Dramatic.

"Captain Karl," with Chas. A. Gardner as the centre of attraction, is a position that he fills with every grace and ever increasing honor. "Captain Karl" has a future before it, and a mint of money for its projectors.—Sunday Standard, Newark, Aug. 23, 1891.

MR. GARDNER HAS NO RIVAL.

Charming Stage Pictures, Beautiful Costumes, Picturesque Scenery. Throughout the play MR. GARDNER will introduce the following new songs: "INVITATION TO THE WEDDING," "LOVE IS DIVINE," "CAPT. KARL MARCH," "BUBBLES," "CRADLE SONG," "BACCHUS, GOD OF WINE," "SWEET LAND TYROL," and his ever popular success,

"THE LILAC,"

Making mirth contagious, delighting young and old alike, and filling the theatres with joyous throngs.

FAMOUS FATHERLAND TYROLEAN QUARTET.
